In 1936, even before it was finished, knowledgeable people talked about Fallingwater, this new work of Frank Lloyd Wright. When Wright came to the site he appreciated the powerful sound of the falls, the vitality of the young forest, the dramatic rock ledges and boulders; these were elements to be interwoven with the serenely soaring spaces of his structure. But Wright's insight penetrated more deeply. He understood that people were creatures of nature, hence an architecture which conformed to nature would conform to what was basic in people. Fallingwater opened a new chapter in American architecture, and is perhaps Wright's greatest work. Children must be at least 6 years of age to tour Fallingwater.

Leave Fallingwater and enjoy lunch at the luxurious Nemaacolin Woodlands Resort. After lunch, delight in a wine tasting in the renowned Nemaacolin wine cellar. Nemaacolin Woodlands Resort is home to the largest wine cellar in the state of Pennsylvania. With a capacity of over 17,000 bottles, the cellar is an amazing study of wines from around the world.
