The 55th Carnegie International Exhibit will be open during the time of the IEEE PES General Meeting. For more than 100 years, the Carnegie International has been the premier North American showcase for the best new art and new artists from around the globe.

The historic, century-old Dinosaur Hall was closed in Spring 2005 for over two years of renovation and construction, resulting in the spectacular new exhibit Dinosaurs in Their Time. The new exhibit illustrates the incredible diversity of life in the Mesozoic Era, placing the dinosaurs in dramatic new, scientifically accurate poses amidst the hundreds of plant and animal species that shared their environments.
