9. Nominator's name, IEEE membership number and grade, address, residence and business telephone numbers, e-mail address, and current IEEE position
10. List primary service to this Region. Be concise, but clearly state why the nominee is deserving of this award. Emphasize contributions which went beyond the duties of the particular offices held.

12. List service to the Institute outside of those already described in the previous section.

Outstanding Service Award Form

When describing accomplishments at any level, details of the significance of the activity is most important. Simple lists of positions held do not fully explain the nominee's contributions.

(Examples of contributions rather than merely positions held might be that the nominee developed an innovative project that had a profound impact on the Section or Area or Region and its members by providing employment services or enhanced marketing of members professional resources, that a new conference could be termed ground breaking for some reason or another, or that new ideas resulted in enhanced operation of the Region or reduced financial risk. An appointment at the Board level to represent IEEE could have had a positive influence on the services offered to our members or resulted an improved way of doing business. The emphasis should be on how the contributions of the nominee should be recognized as an outstanding service to the members of Region 6.)
