Special Presentation: “Global Job Searching – Challenges and Tactics” By Rainer Morita

We welcome speaker Rainer Morita to Tokyo Institute of Technology for his presentation on “Global Job Searching – Challenges and Tactics”

Outline:

In the global war for talent, organizations hire people from anywhere. This opens new possibilities. Rather than accepting the limits of your home job market, you want access to the best opportunities, now, everywhere. You want to tap into local talent markets abroad, but do not know how.

This seminar will address the success factors of international job searching in any of the four regions (Americas, EMEA, Africa, Asia) with regard to

- International recruitment methods of large companies (Intel, IBM, Accenture, Google, DuPont, Huawei, Samsung, Siemens, GE, APPLE, etc.)
- Creating and customizing your resume for specific countries.
- Using LinkedIn to find and be found.
- Creating a global job search strategy in the Open Job Market and Hidden Job Market.
- Uncovering and targeting companies overseas in the Hidden Job Market.
- Challenges of executing a global job search campaign (time, language, finance, visas, culture).
- Highlighting the best job search tools and techniques.
- Negotiating salary based on your value.

This seminar will enable you to make better decisions for an international job search and become a more confident global job search navigator.
